

PULASKI.

The Gem of the Mountains
Growing to a City.

PULASKI, Va., March, 16.—[Special]—Pulaski was first called the "Gem of the Mountains" by your correspondent and since then Editor Christian, of the News, has riveted the appellation to the place and used it to attract men and money to aid in building a city. Pulaski is a gem in many respects. As a place of business or residence there is much in its favor and nothing against it. Its people are wide-awake, liberal and progressive and while industries have come slowly there secured are valuable and of a character to attract others.

Pulaski is, as you readers know, the northern terminus of the North Carolina (Cripple Creek) division of the Norfolk and Western railroad and is, therefore, the key to the great Cripple Creek iron ore and zinc beds. The iron ores from this section are indispensable to the profitable manufacture of pig in this section of Virginia, and are consequently in great demand. This fact gives Pulaski a decided advantage over many other towns and is being utilized for all it is worth. To it may be attributed the erection of the Pulaski iron furnace and the 40 per cent dividend it yielded the first year of its operation, and the building of the Dora furnace by Capt. George T. Mills, L. S. Coffey and other capitalists, to go in blast in a few months.

There are a number of paying industries in operation here and others are going up rapidly in spite of the continuous bad weather. The Bertha Zinc Works have long since passed into the industrial songs and stories of the South-west as one of the best paying enterprises in the South. Besides the Pulaski iron furnace, and the one in course of erection, a large flouring mill with a daily capacity of 60 barrels, and a planing mill has just been completed, and Mr. C. C. L. Brown, a native Virginian, late manager of Carnegie, Phipps & Co.'s great mills at Pittsburgh, Pa., and subsequently of the Illinois Steel Company, a $5,000,000 rolling mill to employ from 200 to 300 men. Your correspondent could mention other industrial establishments, for they are here, but these and the statement that fully $1,000,000 have been invested in the aggregate must suffice for the present.

The News, edited by A. A. Christian, and the Advertiser, by R. L. Gardner, are doing well from a pecuniary point of view, and both are booming Pulaski. It is conceded by candid people that no newspaper is adequately rewarded for a work in spreading a knowledge of the advantages and resources of its section and those above mentioned are not exceptions. Christian is preparing to publish his weekly into a daily, and will be succeeded by Prof. J. C. Davenport, principal of the Pulaski Graded School. These changes are a satisfactory guarantee that the town is to be boomed, and boomed as far as money, brains and pluck can contribute to it.

Lots are continually changing hands here. Last week Harrison, Watson & Co., sold $10,000 worth to a Chicago party. Twelve years ago a gentleman bought a small tract for $100, and, having sold off lots to the value of $2,500, his wife informed him that she would sign no more deeds until the remainder was disposed of for $10,000. She joined with her husband in a deal to the Chicago purchaser.

One of Pulaski's many charms is Maple Shade Inn, Manager Fred E. Foster, who is assisted by W. H. Hays, a genial, handsome man who manifests a great fondness for almost everything that can be petted by a woman. His favorites, judging solely from the careful and very gentle way he fondles them, are two alligators behind the office counter. They are four or five years old, about fourteen inches long and anything but attractive, but friend Hays does not seem to appreciate the importance or desirability of beauty in his pets, but justifies the conclusion that he admires the opposite. This peculiar trait of affection, whichever it is, does not lessen his capacity for conducting a hotel, for Maple Shade is excelled by no hostelry in the land. The rooms are elegantly furnished, the cuisine all that the most fastidious could desire and the service prompt and polite.

A large addition to the main building is well under way and will give Maple Shade fifty additional rooms, but these will not be adequate to the demand, such is its popularity not only with the traveling public, but the people of Pulaski, many of whom live there. A stone wall, like that which encloses Hotel Roanoke, is being built. When these improvements are completed Maple Shade will have no superior in the South for beauty and comfort. It has none now in point of management.

Here, as at Radford, THE TIMES was complimented. At both places a correspondent will hereafter keep your readers posted on local occurrences, and news agents and news boys, as well as the mails will supply a largely increased number of readers with the "best paper in Southwest Virginia."

Stocks Going Higher.

The continuous decline in all classes of securities on the stock exchanges for the past year must make almost any stock on the "list" cheap at present prices. Those who have large or small amounts to invest should write to A. R. Chisolm & Co., Bankers, 61 Broadway, New York city, for their "Weekly Circular."

One More Gun.

Officer Brown got another stolen gun yesterday, making in all fifteen he has so far recovered from different parties. He found the last in possession of a man living at Evington, on the Lynchburg and Durham railroad.

Eupespy.

This is what you ought to have; in fact you must have it to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and persisted in, will bring you good action and out the demon dyspepsia and all its attendant evils. We recommend it instead of eupespy. We recommend it instead of eupespy.
